1. As we build on the momentum brought about by the UN Transforming Education Summit (TES) in September 2022, the Department of Education (DepEd) announces the Observance of the 2023 International Day of Education (IDE) with the theme, to invest in people, prioritize education, to amplify the call for education to be prioritized to advance the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) in the context of a global recession, growing inequalities, and the climate crisis.

2. The United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) proclaimed January 24 as IDE, in celebration of the role of education for peace and development. Without inclusive and equitable quality education, and lifelong opportunities for all, countries will not succeed in achieving gender equality and breaking the cycle of poverty that is leaving millions of children, youth and adults behind. The UNGA invites all Member States to observe the IDE in an appropriate manner, and continue to consider enhancing international cooperation in support of the efforts of all Member States relevant to the realization of SDG 4 which aims to ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all by 2030.

3. The IDE aims to
- a. generate visibility from local to global level on prioritizing education to reach the SDGs ahead of the SDG Summit, building on the outcomes of the TES;
  - b. promote and showcase the national statements of commitment at country level and mobilize political and financial support for translating them into action;
  - c. encourage wide take-up of the global initiatives launched at the TES to accelerate foundational learning, get every learner climate ready through greening education, promote public digital learning, advance gender equality in and through education and, ensure continuity in situations of emergency and protracted crisis.
