4. The quiz master will first announce the corresponding category, time allotted for computation and writing of final answer, and the equivalent point of each question.

5. Each Question will be read twice. The team may start solving the problem while the question is still being read. The timer will start once the quizmaster says "Timer starts now." When the allotted time has elapsed, the quizmaster will say "Time is up."

6. The candidates per team may discuss their answers within themselves, but the team must only write one final answer on the provided whiteboard. Final answers must not have any form of erasures. If the final answer has any form of erasures, the answer will be considered incorrect.

7. Upon the announcement of "Time is up", the whiteboard must be raised immediately. If a team fails to do so, it will be deemed that the team has given an incorrect answer. The answer for each team will be shown for the quiz master to read aloud and for the audience to see and hear.

If the tie still exists after three tie-breaking questions, the speed-play format will be followed. Teams will bid for the correct answer.
